Fourth of July events set for Wednesday

Heat, drought still pose threat to annual fireworks show, Duck Derby postponed because of low water levels

CALEN McKINNEY

The heat might not prevent the crowd from coming, but it could postpone the annual fireworks show.

Organizers have been preparing for Wednesday's annual Campbellsville/Taylor County Fourth of July Celebration for months now.

Terry Lile, chair of this year's celebration, said he expects a large crowd to attend the festivities, even though temperatures are expected to be near 100 degrees.

If officials place a ban burn on the state, Lile said, the fireworks show, which typically attracts a large crowd, could be postponed. At press time, the state was not under a burn ban.

"Usually, every year it's hot," Lile said. "[But] there's usually a good crowd that comes out."

Lile said he doesn't remember the Fourth of July committee ever having to postpone a fireworks show before. And he said he believes not having a show hasn't even been discussed before.

"Hopefully, it won't come up this year," he said.

County seeking recycling manager

Mayor offers to let city employee stay on at center for training purposes

CALEN McKINNEY

The county is searching for an employee to oversee its recycling center.

County officials officially take over operation of the city's recycling center today, but they have yet to hire an employee to oversee its operation.

At a special meeting last Wednesday, magistrates agreed to ask the city to allow an employee who was overseeing the center to stay there for up to a month to help train a county employee to do the job.

Taylor County Judge/Executive Eddie Rogers said Campbellsville Mayor Tony Young offered to have a city employee train a county employee at no cost.

Rogers asked if there are any legal issues involved with having a city employee work at a county-run operation.

Taylor County Attorney John Bertram said there aren't, as long as the city pays the employee's salary and then the county reimburses the city.

Magistrate Richard Phillips made a motion to keep the city employee at the center for up to a month and begin the process of hiring a county employee to oversee the center at $10 an hour. He also said the county will reimburse the city for salary costs, if they are asked to do so, up to $10 an hour and benefits. Magistrate Matt Pendleton seconded the motion.

The motion was approved at a vote of five to one, with Magistrate John Gaines casting the lone "no" vote.

Campbellsville Mayor Tony Young said the city will provide

The American Cancer Society Cancer Prevention Study is a research study with the goal to help better understand the factors that cause and prevent cancer.

TRH CEO Jane Wheatley said the survey could ultimately reveal research that finds drugs that could save people's lives.

She said the American Cancer Society, which TRH works closely with, contacted the hospital and asked them to be involved. Several other counties in Kentucky are participating.

Men and women ages 30 to 65 who have never been diagnosed with cancer can participate in the study.

Wheatley said participants who sign up to participate will attend a registration event on either Wednesday, Aug. 15, from 2 to 7:30 p.m. or Thursday, Aug. 16, from 7 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. to have TRH staff members draw blood.

Appointments can be scheduled online at www.trhosp.org by clicking "Cancer Prevention Study."

TRH will host a kickoff meeting for the study on Thursday, July 12, at 8 a.m. A

Jail lawsuit dismissed

Dismissed without prejudice, Maier is not allowed to bring charges again

CALEN MCKINNEY
reporter@cknj.com

A lawsuit alleging that an inmate wasn't given the medication he needed while he was incarcerated at the Taylor County Detention Center has been dismissed.

In June 2010, Georgetown attorney Rocky L. McClintock filed suit in Taylor Circuit Court on behalf of Ralph Todd Maier.

Rick Benningfield, Taylor County's former jailer, and Taylor County government were listed as defendants.

Maier's complaint states that he was lodged at the detention center in June 2009 after being charged with DUI in Green County.

The complaint alleged that Maier told staff members that he had "mental issues" and it was "absolutely vital" that he get medication. He claims staff did not allow him to get that medicine or allow family members to deliver it.

Maier asked for his medication for the next three days after being incarcerated, according to the complaint, and was denied each time.

On the second day he asked, June 17, 2009, detention center staff members were allegedly told that Maier was suffering withdrawal. However, Maier claimed he was again not allowed to contact his family to get his medication.

On the third day, according to the complaint, Maier allegedly suffered a seizure, blacked out, fell and was injured. Unconscious, he was taken to a hospital for treatment, the complaint alleged.

Staff released him from the hospital in his inmate-issued clothing, according to the complaint, without giving him his personal property.

Since being released, Maier alleged he has suffered multiple seizures and blackouts, which have resulted in injuries, and has experienced periods of time where he can't care for himself.

Maier asked that he be awarded actual and punitive damages, court costs and attorney's fees. He also requested a jury trial.

In 2010, Benningfield said booking records stated that Maier spent three days at the detention center. He said Maier was taken to Taylor Regional Hospital for medical treatment and then released. The jail's medical provider, Southern Health Partners, handles all medical complaints, Benningfield said.

Elizabethtown attorney R. Keith Bond of the Coleman Lochmiller & Bond law firm filed a response to Maier's claims on June 28, 2010.

In the answer, the defendants denied the allegations against them and asked that they be dismissed. There has been little activity in the case since.

Taylor Circuit Court Judge Dan Kelly signed an order on June 20 granting a motion from the defendants asking that the case be dismissed with prejudice.

According to Black's law dictionary, when a claim is dismissed with prejudice, the plaintiff is not allowed to prosecute the claim again.

The shelter is open 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to noon on Saturdays and is located off KY 210, just past Walmart. The shelter houses animals from Taylor, Green, Casey and LaRue counties.

LOCAL BRIEFS

McDonald's damaged in fire

McDonald's restaurant was damaged after a fire started in a fryer on Saturday, June 23.

According to a Campbellsville Fire & Rescue report, the fire started in a french fryer and was contained to the fryer and overhead duct.

The report states that the fire was extinguished by two dry chemical fire extinguishers.

Twenty-five personnel responded with four apparatuses. No injuries were reported.

One injured in South Columbia crash

An Elk Horn man was injured in a two-vehicle crash last Wednesday.

According to a Taylor County Sheriff's Office report, Christopher Clark, 31, was driving a 1998 Chevrolet north on South Columbia Avenue at 8:25 p.m.

The report states that Clark failed to notice a vehicle in front of him, a 2003 Ford driven by James Cowherd, 30, of Greensburg, that was stopped to make a turn.

Clark was unable to avoid hitting Cowherd's vehicle, the report states.

Clark was transported to Taylor Regional Hospital for treatment. He was treated and released.

Cowherd was not injured in the collision.

Campbellsville Police, Campbellsville/Taylor County EMS and Campbellsville Fire & Rescue assisted at the scene.

Taylor County Sheriff's Sgt. Robert S. Gribbins investigated.

County: Seeking recycling manager

an employee to help with the transition, as well as transfer a truck, forklift and bailer to the county and allow use of the city's building, all for free.

"We will help them any way we can," he said.

Young said this partnership is another way the city and county are working together to better the community.

"This is a community project," he said.

Rogers said at Wednesday's meeting that he would like the county's Budgets, Audits and Personnel Committee to be involved with hiring an employee to work at the recycling center. Magistrates James Jones and John Gaines serve on the committee. Rogers later said he would like all magistrates involved.

The employee will be hired on a part-time basis for a 90-day probationary period before being made a full-time employee. Magistrates will be asked to approve the hiring, Rogers said, perhaps at a special meeting.

He said magistrates will also need to discuss what company the county will use to purchase its recyclable materials. Officials from various companies will make presentations to magistrates at future meetings.

County officials have been preparing for the change in management at the recycling center for several months during many meetings to discuss the logistics.

There are no immediate plans to change the way recyclable items are collected at the recycling center, however, which is located in Miller Park.

All items currently accepted at the center will continue to be accepted after the county takes over. Those items include newspaper, magazines, aluminum, plastic and cardboard. Officials have said it is important that those who bring recyclables to the center wash them before placing them inside their proper containers.

The county taking over operation of the recycling center came in an agreement reached between the Campbellsville City Council and Taylor County Fiscal Court in January to pay a $2.1-million debt on property in the Heartland Commerce and Technology Park owed by the Campbellsville/Taylor County Economic Development Authority.

The agreement, which went into effect yesterday, states that the city and county will each give the EDA $150,000 a year for operating expenses and land payments.

The $150,000 allotment is a $50,000 increase in the city's yearly contribution and a $50,000 decrease in the county's contribution.

According to the 2012-2013 budget, county officials have estimated that the county will bring in $20,000 in revenue from the recycling center next fiscal year. They have earmarked nearly $50,000 to pay costs associated with the recycling center.

As part of those costs, the budget includes a $20,802 salary for a worker who will oversee the center, along with $1,593 paid on Social Security benefits, $4,068 in retirement and $8,500 for health, dental and life insurance. In all, the employee will earn nearly $35,000.

Also in the budget is $14,187 in program support for the recycling center, as well as $500 for recycling registration and conferences.

For information about applying to for the job opening at the recycling center, call Rogers at 465-7729.

EDA Payment

Magistrates have voted to not pay the $100,000 they earmarked in the county's 2011-2012 fiscal year budget as a payment on the EDA's property.

Rogers said the loan on the property has been refinanced and he understands that the county is no longer obligated to pay the $100,000 as budgeted.

If the county made the $100,000 payment, Rogers said, it would lower the county's surplus money from the 2011-2012 fiscal year. That would mean magistrates would have less money to divide for blacktopping in their districts.

The county currently pays $200,000 a year to EDA. In the 2011-2012 fiscal year, which ended on Saturday, $100,000 of the amount went to EDA operating costs and the remaining was marked as a payment on the land.

Rogers said making the $100,000 payment now would decrease the amount that the EDA has refinanced from $1.9 to $1.8 million.

If the county agreed to make that payment, he said, he believes the city should be asked to pay an additional $100,000 also.

Bertram said making the payment would decrease the amount of the EDA's loan, which the city and county have jointly agreed to pay, but would not invalidate the paperwork. If the $100,000 payment was made, Bertram said, it would simply be the county fulfilling what had been budgeted.

However, Bertram said, magistrates could interpret the new EDA loan agreement as meaning the county wouldn't have to pay any more to the EDA in the 2011-2012 fiscal year.

Magistrate Ed Gorin made a motion to not make the $100,000 payment and carry that money over to the 2012-2013 fiscal year as surplus. Gaines seconded the motion, which was unanimously approved in a roll call vote.

Also at the meeting:

• Rogers told magistrates that the county's boom mower needs repair and he doesn't know when it can be ready for use. He presented a quote for $93,253.75 to purchase a new tractor and boom mower.

Taylor County Road Foreman Brian Smothers said the county could purchase a new boom mower only, which would cost $29,500. However, he said he would like to get a new tractor and use a current one, which the county has used for 10 years, as a backup. He said the $93,253.75 quote is a state contract price.

If ordered now, Smothers said, it could be October or November before the county receives a new boom mower and tractor.

Rogers said the county's boom mower has broken down several times and costs about $1,400 to be repaired each time.

Magistrate Richard Phillips asked if the county could purchase a boom mower this year and a new tractor next year. Smothers said the road department nearly has all of its debt paid and has $60,000 in a line item in the 2012-2013 budget to purchase equipment. He said that money could be used for the purchase, with the rest borrowed from Kentucky Association of Counties.

Taylor County Treasurer Melissa Williams suggested that the county borrow the entire $93,253.75 since interest rates are only 2 to 3 percent. In a roll call vote, magistrates unanimously voted to buy the tractor and boom mower and borrow the entire cost from KACO.

• The Community Center will soon get a new air conditioning unit. Magistrates agreed to replace one of the center's five units at a cost of $8,386. Rogers said he recommends replacing the units, which are more than 30 years old, one at a time. Rogers said a wedding reception was hosted at the center recently and the units went out. The rental fee for the building was refunded, he said.

• The Taylor County Sheriff's Office will apply for $28,000 in Homeland Security funds to install repeaters in cars used for patrol.

• Magistrates had final reading repealing an ordinance banning synthetic drugs in Taylor County. Bertram said state legislators approved a law banning the drugs because many of Kentucky's counties, including Taylor, approved local ordinances banning them.

• Magistrates gave final approval to changes to Taylor County Detention Center's policies and procedures. The changes were minor.

• Rogers asked that magistrates turn in their requests as to what roads in their districts to chip and seal. At a meeting earlier this month, magistrates voted to use the Gaddie Shamrock company to provide the service. Smothers said he has been given about five and a half miles of roads requested for the service.

• Final reading was given to a 15 mph speed limit on Rolling Acres Road.

• Magistrates approved the Taylor County Sheriff's Office tax settlement.

• Final reading of four budget amendments was approved. In the general fund, $626,888.67 was transferred from many line items to the transfer reserve line item. In the road fund, $87,591.04 was moved from the miscellaneous revenue, road aid and recovery line items to the reserve fund. Nearly $310,000 was moved from several line items in the jail fund to the reserve line item. Lastly, $4,400 was moved from the ASAP grant to the program support line item. Also approved were three budget transfers totaling a bit more than $90,000 in the general, road and detention center funds.

Employee Status Updates

• Taylor County Detention Center — Tina Draper was promoted from assistant administrator to office administrator with a pay increase from $24,720 to $30,000 a year. Jon Hawkins was promoted from lieutenant to sergeant.

Natalie Brooke Roberts and Paul Blevins were hired at $9 an hour and Jacob Newton has resigned.

Much of state declared in drought conditions

Agriculture hardest hit by lack of rainfall

The Office of the State Climatologist and the Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet, in coordination with the Kentucky Drought Mitigation Team, have issued a Level 2 drought declaration for 24 counties in three Drought Management Areas in western Kentucky.

Also, a Level 1 drought has been declared for 66 counties in nine DMAs. Taylor County has been named a Level 1 drought area.

A Level 2 drought indicates severe drought conditions have developed. Counties with this designation can expect severe impacts to water-sensitive enterprises, depletion of water supplies in shallow wells, springs and ponds, increased incidences of wildfires, higher demands placed on water treatment facilities and the imposition of water conservation advisories. A Level 1 drought indicates moderate to severe drought conditions have developed, primarily affecting soil moisture and vegetation. Counties with this designation can expect reduced supplies of agricultural water and heightened risk of wildfires.

Counties included in the Level 2 drought declaration:

• Purchase DMA — Ballard, Calloway, Carlisle, Fulton, Graves, Hickman, McCracken and Marshall.

• Pennyriple DMA — Caldwell, Christian, Crittenden, Hopkins, Livingston, Lyon, Muhlenberg, Todd and Trigg.

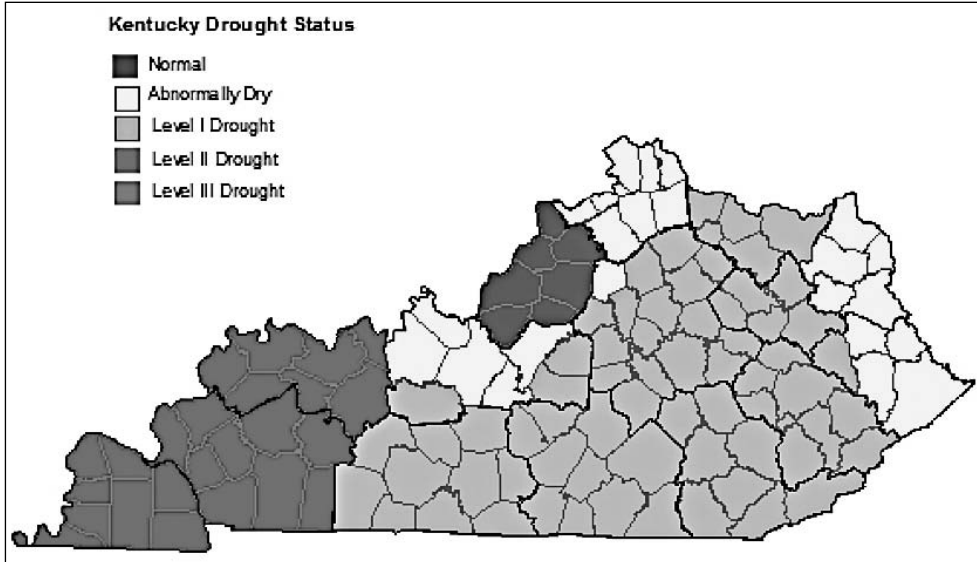

• Green River DMA — Daviess, Hancock, Henderson, McLean, Ohio, Union and Webster.

Counties included in the Level 1 drought declaration:

• Barren River DMA — Allen, Barren, Butler, Edmonson, Hart, Logan, Metcalfe, Monroe, Simpson and Warren.

• Big Sandy DMA — Magoffin.

• Bluegrass DMA — Anderson, Bourbon, Boyle, Clark, Estill, Fayette, Garrard, Harrison, Jessamine, Lincoln, Madison, Mercer, Nicholas, Powell, Scott, Woodford

• Buffalo Trace DMA — Bracken, Fleming, Lewis, Mason and Robertson.

• Cumberland Valley DMA — Bell, Clay, Harlan, Jackson, Knox, Laurel, Rockcastle and Whitley.

• Gateway DMA — Bath, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan and Rowan.

• Kentucky River DMA — Breathitt, Knott, Lee, Leslie,

Letcher, Owsley, Perry and Wolfe.

• Lake Cumberland DMA — Adair, Casey, Clinton, Cumberland, Green, McCreary, Pulaski, Russell, Taylor and Wayne.

• Lincoln Trail DMA — Grayson, Marion and Washington.

Counties considered abnormally dry but not yet included in the Level 1 drought declaration:

• Big Sandy DMA —

Floyd, Johnson, Martin and Pike.

• Bluegrass DMA — Franklin.

• FIVCO DMA — Boyd, Carter, Elliot, Greenup and Lawrence.

• Lincoln Trail DMA — Breckinridge, Hardin, LaRue, Meade and Nelson.

• Northern Kentucky DMA — Boone, Campbell, Carroll, Gallatin, Grant, Kenton, Owen and Pendleton.

June is National Dairy Month

CODY SMITH
Taylor County
Extension Office Intern

Did you know that it takes 21 pounds of whole milk to make one pound of butter, but it only takes 10 pounds of milk to make a pound of cheese?

My name is Cody Smith and I am an intern at the Taylor County Cooperative Extension Office this year. I will be a senior at the University of Kentucky in the fall, majoring in agriculture economics. I come from a family farm background and am planning to pursue a career in the agricultural industry once I graduate in May.

I would like to let everyone know that June is National Dairy Month, and this year is the 75th anniversary of the national effort to promote dairy products.

This program began in 1937 as a campaign for retail stores to sell more dairy products in the time of peak production. It has evolved over the years and survived the wars, and now it is embraced by communities all over the country.

Research shows that the number of dairies has declined drastically over the last decade, and this is why we need to preserve and support the ones in our community.

Taylor County has about 26 dairies left in the community that bring in around $9 million dollars every year, and this isn't counting the economic impact they have here with local businesses in our community.

The milk that cows produce on dairy farms is used to make a large variety of things other than just a carton of milk at the grocery store.

Yogurt, cheese, butter, ice cream, buttermilk, whey, cream cheese and whipped cream are all examples that contain some portion of a dairy product.

For those ladies who use makeup, you may want thank a dairy farmer because milk is even included in some beauty products.

Milk goes into a great deal of products and is a very large industry, so it is important to keep the existing dairies in operation for the community as well as our health.

The recommended consumption of dairy products is two to three servings per day. Milk has been proven to help build strong bones, reduce the risk of bone disease and prevent bone loss for those who are elderly. Milk is also great for those who are suffering symptoms of insomnia because a protein found in milk will help with sleep quality and next-day alertness.

In more recent studies, milk (chocolate milk as well) has been found as a great muscle recovery drink after doing physical activity, and it even helps to reduce the amount of muscle cramping.

There are several other benefits that milk has that you can find at gotmilk.com or southeastdairy.org.

The work put into a dairy farm is tremendous, and dairy farmers have to be very committed to their jobs.

Since dairy farming is a seven-day-a-week job with most farmers milking their cows at least twice a day, sick days are few to none and vacations are almost out of the question completely.

So take time this month to thank a dairy farmer for the job he or she is doing to provide us with all the different products we use on a daily basis.

• Cody Smith is serving as an intern with the Taylor County Extension Office. He is a Taylor County native and graduate of Taylor County High School. He is the son of David and Julie Smith of the Tebbs Bend area.

Farm vehicle registration guide now available

Visit www.kyfb.com/federation for a copy of farm vehicle guide

Kentucky Farm Bureau recently released its 2012 farm vehicle regulations reference guide and has made it available for download at kyfb.com/federation.

The updated booklet is designed to help KFB's members better understand and navigate the new statutes and regulations associated with farm vehicle transportation.

The 17-page guide highlights state and federal guidelines, regulations, exemptions, registration fee schedules and various other pieces of information needed when operating farm vehicles or implements on Kentucky's highways.

"Farm vehicle transportation - and the regulations imposed on those activities - is very important to our members, but it can be confusing if someone is not familiar with the state laws," said Bryan Alvey, KFB's director of local affairs and policy development.

"This revised booklet is especially important because the legislative and administrative regulation changes over the last two years were both significant and numerous. Fortunately, all of the changes have been positive for farm vehicle operators."

These positive changes were the result of KFB working closely with the Kentucky General Assembly, Kentucky State Police Division of Commercial Vehicle Enforcement and the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet.

"Our policy on farm vehicle transportation was adopted by our delegate body and then established by our board as a priority issue for the organization," Alvey said.

"We're proud to say that we struck a good balance on positive regulation changes for farm vehicle transportation while also maintaining a steady emphasis on safety."

Kentucky Farm Bureau's policy on farm vehicle transportation supports legislation that clearly defines the rights of farmers to transport their products to market and move their equipment by the most economically feasible method. To download a free copy of the 2012 Farm Vehicle Regulations reference guide, or learn more about how Kentucky Farm Bureau is serving as "The Voice of Kentucky Agriculture," visit kyfb.com/federation.

Tigers tab Cantwell as new QB coach

HUNTER CANTWELL

Anderson also hired as new CU wide receivers' coach.

CHRIS MEGGINSON
CU Sports Information

Campbellsville University Fighting Tiger football has hired two new offensive assistant coaches, head coach Perry Thomas announced to his team late Wednesday night. Former University of Louisville and NFL quarterback Hunter Cantwell has been named the program's new QB coach and Sean Anderson has been named the program's new wide receivers' coach.

"We are extremely excited to welcome Sean Anderson and Hunter Cantwell to our program," Thomas said. Cantwell reunites with Thomas after helping lead Thomas' Paducah Tilghman High School team to a 31-8 record during his three years as a starter. In college, Cantwell walked on at U of L in 2004 and was a four-year varsity letter winner. As a freshman, he earned the starting role for the 2006 Gator Bowl, being named the game's MVP. The following year, he helped lead the Cardinals to a 12-1 record and a trip to the FedEx Orange Bowl as a sophomore. Prior to the 2008 season, he was nominated for the Johnny Unitas Golden Arm Award and Maxwell Award.

After college, Cantwell spent the last three seasons in the NFL. He was a member of the Carolina Panthers' practice squad from May 2009 until September 2010 and was then picked up by the Baltimore Ravens until October 2011. Away from the field, Cantwell has worked to train and mentor numerous high school quarterbacks in the Louisville area and has spoken at numerous churches, student conference, Fellowship of Christian Athletes events across the nation. "Hunter will bring our QB position instant credibility. He has excelled at a high level as a college and professional player. Hunter is a strong man

What sports do fans follow in the South?

While NASCAR may be huge in the South, the top sports that fans keep up with varies from state to state. The joke is that south of Kentucky, the top three sports are football, football recruiting and spring football. That's probably true at every SEC school other than Kentucky and Vanderbilt. In Kentucky, it's probably men's basketball, men's basketball recruiting and football which has gained in popularity since the Battle of the Bluegrass started on the gridiron in 1994 between the Wildcats and Louisville. It must be noted that women's basketball at both UK and U of L has risen considerably, especially since Louisville's Final Four run. At Vanderbilt, the Commodore followers would probably rate it men's basketball, baseball and football with women's basketball a close fourth. Nashville is a unique city in itself. Tennessee and Vanderbilt are probably supported more by those fans in the Music City. However, Kentucky, Alabama and Mississippi also have huge followings in the Tennessee capital city. In Knoxville, while football has been on a decline, it's still the top show in Big Orange Country, probably ahead of men's and women's basketball in that order. (Yes, the UT men do outdraw the Lady Vols on the hardwood.) Louisville's football popularity has helped the Derby City widen its gap over Kentucky, but the Wildcat faithful still dominate the Cardinals outside of Metro Louisville. While cotton may have been king at one time, truth be known its always really been football in the South.

of faith and character. His leadership will move the QBs and the team to another level," Thomas said.
Cantwell will take over the QB duties previously held by former offensive coordinator Chris Pardue, who is the new Mercer County High School head football coach. New offensive coordinator Rick Gehreer passes his duty as wide receivers coach to Anderson.

A native of St. Louis, Anderson earned his mass communications degree from William Jewell College in 2004 after transferring from Central Missouri State University after the 2000 season. While at William Jewell, he was a two-sport athlete, starting three years at wide receiver and lettering two years in track and field. He was a two-time NAIA national championships track qualifier.

He has coached seven seasons at the NCAA Division I-AA and Division II levels, including three seasons (2004-2006) as a graduate assistant at Jackson State University in Mississippi, four seasons (2007-2010) at Lincoln University in Missouri and a one-year stint (2011) at Northwestern State University in Louisiana. During that time, he has been in charge of recruiting high schools in Mississippi, Missouri, Southeast Texas, Memphis, New Orleans and junior colleges in Mississippi and California.

Anderson has worked with wide receivers at each university. He served as passing game coordinator at Lincoln, where he produced four all-conference players. In his tenure, he has coached a receiver to more than 900 yards of total offense in three of his five seasons as a full-time coach. He also worked with two future NFL players at JSU. Last season at NSU, Anderson worked to manage the sideline and provided offensive scouting reports for the team in addition to coaching receivers and kick returners. Off the field, he coordinated the school's 7-on-7 high school camp and kids camp.

"Sean is an experienced proven wide receiver coach. He will bring a great deal of knowledge to the position. He will also have a positive impact on the campus as he is a man of outstanding character," Thomas said.

Campbellsville concluded its 2011 season by finishing just outside the NAIA Top 25 for the third straight year with a 7-5 record. The Fighting Tigers closed the season as runner-up in the Mid-South Conference East Division before winning the National Christian College Athletic Association (NCCAA) Victory Bowl on Nov. 19.

Cantwell and Anderson will begin work July 9. Players will report for fall camp on Friday, Aug. 10 with the Fighting Tigers' season opener scheduled for a 6 p.m. kickoff on Saturday, Sept. 1 against the University of Pikeville.

CU to host reception for Korean Conflict soldiers

Public is invited

JOAN C. MCKINNEY
Campbellsville University

A book honoring those from Taylor County who served during the Korean Conflict will be unveiled on Wednesday, July 4, from 1 to 3 p.m. in the lobby of Carter Hall on the Campbellsville University campus. The book, written by Department of Mass Communication students at the university, features the stories of 11 veterans. They are Gene Hall, Jack Hamlin, Lilburn Hedgespeth, David L. Henderson Sr., Floyd Jump, Melvin Doug Martin, William E. Newcomb, Ralph Coomer, Alan Humphress, Richard Page and William “Bill” Sears.

It took about two years to complete the book, according to Stan McKinney, associate professor of journalism at Campbellsville University, who served as editor along with Rick Wilson, who recently completed his master’s degree at CU. The writers were students in several CU journalism classes.

The book is the second in a series titled “They Were Soldiers.” The first book included stories about World War II veterans from Taylor County.

The idea was to tell the stories of those from Taylor County who served during war, McKinney said. The Korean Conflict began on June 25, 1950 and ended on July 27, 1953.

Many from Taylor County served in Korea after that, McKinney said, and while their service and sacrifices are appreciated, the 40-page book contains only stories of those who actually fought during the conflict.

Some veterans didn’t want to be included in the book, McKinney said. He said multiple attempts were made to identify those from Taylor County who served during the conflict.

“If anyone was left out, I apologize,” McKinney said. “We made a sincere effort to include everyone who fought during the conflict. Our intention was to record their stories for future generations.”

A copy of the book will be given to each veteran whose story is featured, as well as to area libraries.

“The stories are quite interesting,” McKinney said. “There are also some fascinating photographs of these men during their time in Korea.”

Those featured in the book have been invited to the book unveiling and signing.

Publication of the book, along with the one about World War II, was possible through a grant from the Writing, Engagement, Learning program at Campbellsville University. Copies of the book may be purchased that day for $10 each. All proceeds will go into a scholarship fund for mass communication students at CU.

Copies of the book are available for $10.

For more information, contact McKinney at 789-5035 or somckinney@campbellsville.edu.

Customer Deposits

Text change states when Rate GS deposit may be waived in conjunction with taking service under Rate RS.

Kentucky Utilities Company proposes to change the text of the following electric tariffs: General Service Rate GS, All Electric School Rate AES, Power Service Rate PS, Time-of-Day Secondary Service Rate TODS, Time-of-Day Primary Service Rate TODP, Retail Transmission Service Rate RTS, Fluctuating Load Service Rate FLS, Street Lighting Service Rate ST. LT, Private Outdoor Lighting Rate P.O.LT, Cable Television Attachment Charges Rate CTAC, Curtailable Service Rider CSR10, Curtailable Service Rider CSR30, Excess Facilities Rider EF, Redundant Capacity Rider RC, Supplemental/Standby Service Rider SS, Rider IL for Intermittent Loads, Temporary/Seasonal Service Rider TS, Large Green Energy Rider LGE, Low Emission Vehicle Service Rate LEV, Fuel Adjustment Clause FAC, Demand Side Management Cost Recovery Mechanism DSM, Environmental Cost Recovery Surcharge ECR, and the Terms and Conditions.

Changes to the Terms and Conditions include proposed clarifications on terms and conditions for determining customer rate assignments, as well as when standby or supplemental service must be purchased if customer desires non-firm service.

Although KU is not proposing to change the text of its Fuel Adjustment Clause ("FAC"), other than the correction of a minor typographical error in Paragraph (3), it is proposing to recover certain costs through the FAC to ensure that the correct amounts are collected through base rates and the FAC.

Complete copies of the proposed tariffs containing text changes and proposed rates may be obtained by contacting Lonnie E. Bellar, Kentucky Utilities Company at 220 West Main Street, Louisville, Kentucky, 502-627-4830, or visiting Kentucky Utilities Company's website at www.lge-ku.com.

The foregoing rates reflect a proposed annual increase in revenues of approximately 6.5% to Kentucky Utilities Company.

Fourth: Fourth of July celebration events set

The weather has already postponed one July Fourth event. The annual Duck Derby, sponsored by the News-Journal and Coppock Appliance & Electronics, which was to begin at 6 p.m., has been postponed because of the Miller Park creek being too low for the race.

Ducks are still available at the News-Journal office, Green River Ministries and Coppock's for $5 each.

Proceeds collected will be donated to Green River Ministries and the Taylor County Ministerial Association Food Pantry. The person whose duck crosses the finish line first will win a 50-inch LG high definition television from Coppock's.

Though the celebration takes lots of work to plan, Lile says the final chores on the committee's to-do list have been checked off. "It's fallen into place," he said.

Lile said booth rentals of vendors to line Main Street are up 30 percent when compared to last year's numbers.

There will be a few new food vendors this year, Lile said, including one from Pineville offering Greek food.

A new event this year will be a bicycle rodeo, which Lile says will be hosted by Norton's Healthcare. The event will include bicycle safety tips and a bicycle course set up for riders.

This year's hot air balloon glow will be tomorrow night, beginning at 8:30 p.m. at Taylor County High School. The balloon liftoff will begin at 7 a.m. Wednesday morning at the Miller Park walking track.

Lile says he doesn't believe the weather will cancel the balloon events as it has in years past.

This year's parade will again start at the Roberts Road area and head west down Main Street. That change was made because of demolition at Fruit of the Loom, he said, and went over well last year.

In honor of the 100th anniversary of the Girl Scouts, local troops will be this year's grand marshals.

Those planning to be in the parade should line up beginning at 8 a.m., and everyone should be in place no later than 9:30. The parade will begin at 10 a.m.

The grand marshal, dignitaries, veterans and fire and rescue personnel should line up at Campbellsville Middle School. Class cars should meet at Water Tower Bypass and Industrial Road.

Tractors and horses will meet at Water Tower Bypass at the Old Lippard Factory.

Those on floats and four wheelers and go-carts should meet at Water Tower Bypass and Foundation Drive.

Pageant entries and ball teams should meet at Water Tower Bypass and INFAC. Those who will be walking, holding the banner at the beginning of the parade and all honor guard and American Legion officers will line up at Martin Luther King Boulevard and Allen Street.

Lile said the parade draws top political figures each year, which comments on the caliber of the celebration.

Sen. Mitch McConnell, R-Kentucky, will be on hand again this year, Lile said.

Lile says he isn't sure if officials name a largest celebration in the state. Nevertheless, he said he believes Taylor County's celebration is definitely in the top five in the state.

"I think it will be a good celebration," he said.

Preparation for the annual July Fourth celebration begins very shortly after the previous one, with a meeting to discuss the success of the celebration.

Health: Studies conducted

breakfast will be at 7:30 a.m.

Wheatley said those interested in participating should attend to learn more about the expectations of the study.

To enroll in the study, participants will be asked to sign a consent form, complete a comprehensive survey packet that asks for information on lifestyle, behavior and other factors related to health, have their waist measured and give a small blood sample.

Wheatley said participants will receive surveys in the mail every two to three years to measure their progress.

Previous American Cancer Society studies found the link between cigarette smoking and lung cancer and the impact of air pollution on heart and lung conditions.

Wheatley said about 70 people signed up to participate in the cancer study at the hospital's recent community health fair. She said the goal is to have 300 people participate. Those who participate, she said, could be providing information to help people for generations to come. And, she said, participating is free and painless.

"Just because, why not?" she said. "Help someone down the road."

Health Assessment

The Taylor County Healthy Living Coalition's community-wide health assessment survey will help local officials assess Taylor County residents' perceptions of various health-related issues.

Jackie Hodges, health educator at the Taylor County Health Department and co-chair of the Healthy Living Coalition, says the group's overall goal is to promote and coordinate all community events that are health-related.

There are multiple assessments the group is undertaking, she said, one being the health survey that asks various demographics and other questions.

The others are collecting statistics about Taylor County, assessing public health systems in Taylor County, which was done in 2010, and evaluating what influences change in the community.

Questions on the survey will include identifying major health problems in Taylor County and asking what recreational facilities residents use, among others.

Hodges said the coalition's goal is to have 2,000 people complete the survey, which is available by visiting www.trhosp.org and clicking on "Taylor County Health Assessment." Paper copies are available at the health department.

Hodges said about 150 people have completed the assessment so far. She said the coalition would like a diverse population of people to complete them.

She said participating takes about 10 minutes and can help officials identify the major health issues in Taylor County. It also gives residents an opportunity to voice their opinions.

The results, she said, will create a plan to improve residents' health.

"It's gonna make a difference in their health," she said. "Their children, their grandchildren. [It will] improve the community."

Hodges said she will be speaking about the survey at various churches, meetings and back to school events.

The survey will be available through the end of September.

"If we don't get a good number, it's kind of useless," she said.
